Superbowl Champion's Coaching Staff Includes WLAC Alumnus

CULVER CITY, CA – Former West Los Angeles College quarterback Spencer Phillips could be spotted on the sidelines at the 52nd Superbowl this past Sunday. Phillips is a coaching assistant who joined the champion Philadelphia Eagles early in 2016.

Phillips stood out in football at Willamette High School in Oregon. But pursuing his football dreams meant moving to California as the community colleges in Oregon did not have football programs. While at West, he earned all-Pacific Conference honors and served as the team captain. He was also talented in the classroom earning a 3.5 GPA.

From West, Phillips transferred to Murray State and then to Humboldt State University where his career on the field continued. He earned both a Bachelor and Master degree at Humbolt.

Prior to joining the Eagles, Phillips spent seven years as a quarterbacks coach with "Throw it Deep" academy and a year coaching with Samford University in Alabama.

"I was always impressed with Spencer. In addition to talent and brains, he had a strong work ethic and demonstrated leadership," said Marguet Miller, WLAC Head Football Coach. "I'm not surprised at all to see him doing so well." He continued, "At West, we strive to prepare our players for success in the future whether it be on or off the field. Phillips is another great example of the opportunities Jucos can offer."

West Los Angeles College is located at 9000 Overland Avenue, Culver City, CA 90230. The college is a ACCJC-accredited community college providing full-time, part-time and online paths to university transfer and career preparation.
